

Engaging & Communing Through Art with the Magnolia Bayou Watershed

March 23, from 5pm-8pm at 100 Men Hall

Natural landscapes change with the passage of time. How does an artist make a deep connection at a time and a place and interpret that into art? Join us as we reveal to you how twenty-four local artists worked in harmony with the landscape around them in communion with the environment of Magnolia Bayou. Many Artists utilized natural materials in their pieces. Will these pieces evoke deep thought about the small slice of our local environment known as the Magnolia Bayou watershed? How will you be changed? What is our response to living with unpredictable Mother Nature?

This exhibition takes place at 100 Men Hall, 303 Union Street in Bay St. Louis, MS for one night only.

Free and open to the public.

Cash bar available.

A group discussion about art and nature will accompany the exhibit and how art can help us forge better, more viable relationships with our natural world. This discussion will occur around the fire pit, so bring a lawn chair and join us!

This project was partially funded by a grant from the Mississippi Arts Commission, a state agency.
